TO SUIT YOUR BUSINESS.

MINING

When it comes to mining you need your gear to be tough, reliable and safe. That's why when it comes to fitting-out vehicles built for the mining industry, we employ the same principles ensuring your vehicles are well equipped for the task at hand.

We promise nothing but the best and to do this we test all of our products thoroughly to guarantee their reliability, durability and functionality on site. As a result, before any of our product lines are available for sale, they must be certified to comply with the highest possible safety standards and be 100% compliant on site.

It's this level of quality assurance that sets us apart from the rest and allows us to accommodate a wide range of vehicle packages, while delivering consistent fitment requirements day in, day out.

DEALERS AND FMOS

When you buy a new ute, you want it to be ready to go before you drive away, don't you? Well, with Aeroklas it's totally possible! All you need to do is mention Aeroklas to your dealer and they'll organise having your ute fully equipped with a canopy, tray, trundle drawers and anything else you require.

Instead of buying a new ute and organising fitment yourself, which could take months to complete, not to mention the inflated costs that go with it, we make the whole process easy, efficient and straightforward so you can enjoy your industry-ready ute from day one - you can even include these accessories as part of your novated lease!

And whether you include it as part of a novated lease or not, all the specs, fitting, testing and transportation to our fitment centre and back to the dealer, it's all included with your new ute purchase.

TOUGH JOBS NEED TOUGH EQUIPMENT.

Flexiglass commenced in Western Australia in 1949 when Harry Robins saw the first Holden car and identified the need for a station wagon.

Harry created his first canopy using a steam bent timber frame and sheet metal panels. It was an outstanding success! He was soon making a range of designs from aluminium sheeting with side sliding windows, before moving on to create the first ever fibreglass canopy in 1956.

Since then, the pioneers of the very first commercially recognised canopy have become the oldest and longest serving canopy supplier around.

Consistently at the forefront of design and technology, with a range of products to suit most vehicles, Flexiglass truly are the canopy specialists.
